SEEL – Podcast – English

Welcome to the SEEL-homepage.

In this podcast we would like to present the history and the objectives of the project SEEL.

SEEL represents sound in European e-learning. Our goal is to examine how learning could be promoted through the use of audio elements.

How did we get this idea?

In everyday life we are constantly faced with audio. For example, while shopping in the supermarket.

In particular, the advertising and film industry set a specific focus on audio elements to evoke emotions and control attention.

Both emotion and attention have a significant impact on learning.

But audio elements are hardly targeted to improve learning in schools.

This is one of the reason why we establish the European project SEEL - Sounds in European e-learning.

Accordingly, this project set the following focus:

First step is to explore the relationship between audio elements and learning.

The second step is to develop specific teaching materials.

The third step is to implement and test these teaching materials in practice.

And fourth step is to evaluate these teaching materials.

We also want to provide assistance. Therefore a guideline how to create audio elements and how could these audioelements be integrated into learning environments will be designed.

All materials are available for free on our homepage.

Accordingly, you find already different materials in the download area.

For Example you find there already first sounds for free.

In addition, you find in the download area some research papers about the topic. And if you are interested what were are doing at the workshop meetings you will find on the
