SEEL – Sounds and audios in learning processes

The European project SEEL – Sounds in European E-Learning (2014-1-DE02-KA200-001631) is embedded in the key action ‘Cooperation for innovation and the exchange of good practices’, action ‘Strategic Partnerships’. SEEL focuses the field of vocational education and training (VET) and aims to develop research results in the field of using sound and audio elements in e-learning settings with a specific focus on vocational education and training, to create open educational resources- OER for integration into OER learning opportunities and environments. And at least to develop a training course on the use of sound and audio elements in learning contexts, especially for visual impaired learners.

Actually the consortium is working on the curricular design and the train the teacher module which should be implemented as a face to face as well as online course. Week ago the consortium had its third, successful partner meeting in Timisoara, Romania to discuss the ongoing tasks and next steps for implementation. The partners are proud for the integration of the first Micro Units with the contents around language learning, mathematics and sales. All information are available at our project website: <http://seel.eduproject.eu/>

Partner Meeting in October 2015
